

CONF 754: Micro Theories of Conflict

Faculty: Borislava Manojlovic (bmanojlo@gmu.edu)

(office hours by appointment via Skype)

George Mason University

School for Conflict Analysis and Resolution

Spring 2016

Prerequisites

This course should be taken after or together with CONF 501.

Overview

This course is designed for master students to actively engage in reflecting on the course material interactively. The goal of this course is to explore theoretical approaches to psychological processes, personality, ingroup and intergroup dynamics, and social processes in the society as whole with the emphasis on their role in the processes of conflict resolution and transformation. Critical understanding of psychological and socio-psychological phenomena as both generators and outcomes of conflict will be an important part of the course. This course has three main parts: psychological processes, approaches to person, and group processes and society. This is a fully online course and will be taken through Blackboard 9.1. All coursework will be submitted through Blackboard. I will include submission instructions for each type of assignment or activity.

If you have joined this course anticipating a series of narrated PowerPoint presentations, you need to adjust your expectations. This is a highly interactive course that will require a high level of self-direction, communication, and problem solving on your part. I expect you to learn in collaboration with one another, and I expect to learn from you as well. You are a valuable part of this course and relating your past personal, professional and academic experiences will not only make your learning meaningful, but in relating to and communicating with your classmates, you may provide constructive clarity and insights. Furthermore, by sharing evidence-based articles, resources and URLs, you will enrich this course and make it better than it ever was before.

The course week runs from Monday through Sunday. I will open the weekly course folders by 9am each Monday morning. Though the delivery method is different, it should take you the same amount of time as a typical graduate course. Expect to spend 8 to 10 hours on coursework each week (this includes the time you would have spent in a classroom). It is critical to keep up with weekly requirements.

A weekly folder will be available by clicking on 'Course Contents' on the course menu in Blackboard that will specify all required learning activities.

Blackboard

We will use Blackboard 9.1 for the course. Additional guidance on individual assignments and discussion questions will be posted there. You will submit your work through Blackboard for grading. Submit your work through Blackboard. Please visit our Blackboard site regularly.

Access Blackboard 9.1 by following these steps:

1. Go to <http://mymason.gmu.edu>.
2. Login using your NETID and password,
3. Click on the 'Courses' tab.
4. Click on 201510 - Master - CONF-754-DL2 / CONF-754-ML2 \(Spring 2016\) under the "Blackboard Course List.

Course Policies

There are penalties for papers submitted late. For each day a paper is late, 2 points will be deducted.

No late blog or discussion postings will be accepted.

Instructor-Student Communication

I will respond to your emails within 24 hours. If I will be away from email for more than one day, I will post an announcement in the Blackboard course folder.

Before sending an email, please check the following (available on your Blackboard course menu) unless the email is of a personal nature:

1. Syllabus
2. Help forum (Feel free to respond to other students in the Help forum if you know the answer.)
3. Blackboard tutorials on how to use Blackboard features
4. Blackboard Q&A, and
5. Technology Requirements.

If you have difficulty connecting to Blackboard, please contact the ITU Support Center at support @gmu.edu or 703.993.8870

If you need help with Blackboard features, please contact courses@gmu.edu.

Email

Mason requires that Mason email be used for all courses. I will be sending messages to your Mason email and you are responsible for making sure you have access to these messages.

- You may forward your Mason e-mail to other accounts but always use your Mason e-mail when communicating with me to allow verification of your identity.
- You are required to check your Mason e-mail account regularly and to keep your mailbox maintained so that messages are not rejected for being over quota.
- When you email me, you can expect a response within 24 hours. If I am going to be away from email for more than one days, I will send an announcement to the class.
- When you email me, be sure to include CONF754 at the beginning of the subject heading to alert me that I have received a message from one of my online students. (I'll give priority to these e-mails).

Assessment of Students

Students participating in the full course will be graded based on the following:

(62% of final grade) - Active participation in the class activities (group discussions and individual blogs and comments)

In case of common group entry all group members will receive the same amount of points.

Group discussion- students will be assigned to groups and discussions will take place with the group members Blog postings are individual reflections. Replies to other students are not required; however, you may receive additional points by commenting on another student's blog entry. The comments must be meaningful and provide evidence of in-depth thought to receive extra points.

(21% of final grade) - Two times (after the end of first and second part of the course), write a case study paper using 2-3 theoretical approaches analyzed in these parts of the course. To write these two papers, choose a particular conflict and apply theories to the analysis of this case. The case study can be drawn from the organizational, communal, national, or international level and can represent any social conflict between groups- professional, gender, ethnic, religious, national, political, etc. In your analysis try to answer the following questions: What approaches have been useful, and what approaches less useful in understanding of conflict dynamics? In what ways do these various approaches complement each other? Contradict each other? As a whole, what ideas do they offer scholars of conflict analysis and resolution? Papers should be 3-4 pages maximum, double-spaced, one-inch margins and Times New Roman 12 pt. font.

(17% of final graded) Final paper: analysis of conflict of your choice

The final paper unites all theoretical approaches of the course. Use the same case study that you analyzed for two previous papers. For this paper be sure to analyze your case based on theoretical ideas and notions you studied during the whole course. Show how theoretical analysis can help understand micro level of conflict. First, you will need to prepare a draft of your paper in the form of power point file with at least 8 slides and post it for the class discussion. Then, based on the recommendations and questions that you'll receive during discussion, you should write the final paper. The final paper should be 15 pages in length, double-spaced, one-inch margins and Times New Roman 12 pt. font.

Participation Requirements

In joining this course you are connecting with a learning community that thrives on participation and interaction. The success of our independent small learning groups and our class as a whole depends on your personal commitment for accountability. If you know of an unusual circumstance that creates an absence of more than 3 days, let your team (and me) know, so we can avoid team frustration caused by unfulfilled commitments.

By enrolling in this course, you have forged a bond. Although you might feel invisible sitting before your monitor, even your initial post to team discussions, makes you an integral class member. Of course, the unexpected could happen too. It often does. Your obligation is simply to let people know why your usual level of participation is about to shift or has suddenly shifted.

Netiquette For Online Discussions [1]

Our discussion should be collaborative, not combative; you are creating a learning environment, sharing information and learning from one another. Respectful communication is important to your success in this course and as a professional. Please re-read your replies carefully before you post them so others will not take them out of context or as personal attacks. Be positive to others and diplomatic with your words and I will try my best to do the same. Be careful when using sarcasm and humor. Without face-to-face communications your joke may be viewed as criticism. Experience shows that even an innocent remark in the online environment can be easily misconstrued.

[1] Netiquette prepared by Charlene Douglas, Associate Professor, College of Health & Human Services, GMU.

Student Responsibilities and Services

Academic Integrity

Students must be responsible for their own work, and students and faculty must take on the responsibility of dealing explicitly with violations. The tenet must be a foundation of our university culture. [See <http://academicintegrity.gmu.edu/distance>].

Honor Code Students must adhere to the guidelines of the George Mason University Honor Code [See <http://academicintegrity.gmu.edu/honorcode>].

MasonLive/Email (GMU Email) Students are responsible for the content of university communications sent to their George Mason University email account and are required to activate their account and check it regularly. All communication from the university, college, school, and program will be sent to students solely through their Mason email account. [See <https://thanatos.gmu.edu/masonlive/login>].

Patriot Pass Once you sign up for your Patriot Pass, your passwords will be synchronized, and you will use your Patriot Pass username and password to log in to the following systems: Blackboard, University Libraries, MasonLive, myMason, Patriot Web, Virtual Computing Lab, and WEMS. [See <https://thanatos.gmu.edu/passwordchange/index.jsp>].

University Policies Students must follow the university policies. [See <http://universitypolicy.gmu.edu>].

Responsible Use of Computing Students must follow the university policy for Responsible Use of Computing. [See <http://universitypolicy.gmu.edu/policies/responsible-use-of-computing>].

University Calendar Details regarding the current Academic Calendar. [See <http://calendar.gmu.edu>].

Students with Disabilities Students with disabilities who seek accommodations in a course must be registered with the George Mason University Office of Disability Services (ODS) and inform their instructor, in writing, at the beginning of the semester [See <http://ods.gmu.edu>].

University Libraries

University Libraries provides resources for distance students. [See <http://library.gmu.edu/distance> and http://infoguides.gmu.edu/distance_students].

Writing Center

The George Mason University Writing Center staff provides a variety of resources and services (e.g., tutoring, workshops, writing guides, handbooks) intended to support students as they work to construct and share knowledge through writing. [See <http://writingcenter.gmu.edu>]. You can now sign up for an Online Writing Lab (OWL) session just like you sign up for a face-to-face session in the Writing Center, which means YOU set the date and time of the appointment! Students are expected to follow courteous Internet etiquette.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of the course, students will be able to:

1. Describe the major approaches to conflict on the level of psychological processes, personality, and intergroup relations and society.
2. Evaluate selected micro theories as relevant to the field of conflict analysis and resolution.
3. Apply skills of critical analysis to micro theories as they describe the components and dynamics of conflicts and their resolution.
4. Develop an expertise in a range of theories that seek to explain a particular aspect of conflict or conflict resolution.
5. Compare effectiveness of particular theoretical concepts as tools of conflict analysis.
6. Develop new innovative approaches to resolution of conflicts based on ideas and concepts presented in micro theories.
