

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The editors of the publication “Cost of Conflict: Untold stories – Georgian-Ossetian conflict in peoples’ lives” express their gratitude to all those who made this publication possible.

The editors express their deep appreciation to the authors of personal stories, who despite going through all the hardships of war, yet again agreed to remember the pain and horrors they went through and shared their thoughts on the cost of the conflict they have paid. After all, these are the people who today continue to pay the price of the conflict.

We thank our journalists – Irina Kelekhsayeva and Goga Aptsiauri for collecting the material, for their high professionalism and loyalty to the principles of peacekeeping, for living the emotions with their interviewees, and for their impartial attitude towards them during and after the recording of their difficult life stories.

Editors extend their special thanks to all those without whose highly professional and selfless work it would be impossible to publish this collection in three languages: translators Natia Nadiradze, Nana Gamkrelidze, Nina Selwan and Manana Swanson-Gnolidze, proofreaders Ana Chabashvili, Natalia Tadevosyan and Jacquie Greiff, designers and the staff of the publishing house.

Editors sincerely thank Margarita Tadevosyan – the manager of the publication for her enormous effort, inexhaustible energy and dedication, which were especially important at all stages of preparing this publication.

We are grateful to the Conflict Security and Stabilization Fund of the United Kingdom, and to United States Agency for International Development, without whose financial support the publication would have been impossible.

Of course, it would be unfair not to say a word of deep gratitude to our partners Lira Kozaeva and Giorgi Kanashvili for their support and help in realization of this publication.